

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for detecting the remaining lifetime of light source lamp. In the method of the present invention, a lamp voltage across two lamp electrodes of the light source lamp is measured. The measured voltage is then converted to a digital value. Next, the digital value is compared with a relational table to calculate the remaining lifetime of the lamp.

5